Occurred on Sturgis Rd, Sonora. 15 month child went to the fathers house on Sunday and came home with a bruise on forehead .
Summary: I spoke to the RP who said the child went to stay with the father for 4 hours on Sunday, and came home with a bruise on his forehead. The father will not respond to her calls or text messages regarding the bruise. The RP had already taken the child to prompt care and said they would not give her a diagnosis without knowing what happened to the child.
I contacted . He said on Father's day, he went with family to a friends house and hung out for the 4 hours he had with his son. During the time, the child played with the other kids and only two times did something happen that may have cause a bruise. Once the kid was running down the hallway and got ahead of his feet and fell down. The only other time was when the kids were outside and the child walked into the ledge on the BBQ that platters and plates are set on. The father said those were the only times he could think of that would have possibly made a mark or bruise. The father advised there is a bad court battle going on and anything like this is going to be pushed until he is not able to see the child.
I contacted the RP and advised her of the statement from the father. I also let her know he said he was not going to respond because of a fear of his words being twisted and used against him.
I recommended to both the RP and Father get recorders and record every message, for documentation purposes.
